

TEST BANK

1. How are the members of a crisis negotiations team selected?

- a. They are appointed by the Chief of Police
- *b. Officers voluntarily interview for the position
- c. They are selected based on their merit within the field
- d. None of the above

2. The team member's role that is to be the pipeline between the negotiation team and the primary is referred to as?

- *a. Secondary/Coach
- b. Recorder
- c. Intelligence Officer
- d. Negotiator Supervisor

3. A replication of the types of situations an officer will encounter through face to face or voice to voice training, is called what type of training?

- a. Roundtable Exercise
- b. Fishbowl Exercise
- *c. Role Playing
- d. Case Study

4. What are the benefits of external training?

- a. Develop contacts and working relationships
- b. Ability to witness how other departments work
- c. Positive reinforcement
- *d. All of the above

5. Displaying intelligence, reporting demands, and identifying actors involved are all essential steps in the negotiation process. What is the best method to disseminate this information?

- a. E-mail
- *b. Situation Boards
- c. Radio Loops
- d. Tape Recorders

6. Throw phones, negotiations vehicles, and closed-loop intercoms are all necessary pieces of equipment for a negotiations team.

- a. True
- *b. False

7. Asset seizure accounts, 100 clubs, and military surplus sales are all ways to attain additional more expensive equipment.

- *a. True
- b. False

8. Reluctance to critically analyze situations is one of the top ten most common mistakes associated with critical incident management.

- *a. True
- b. False